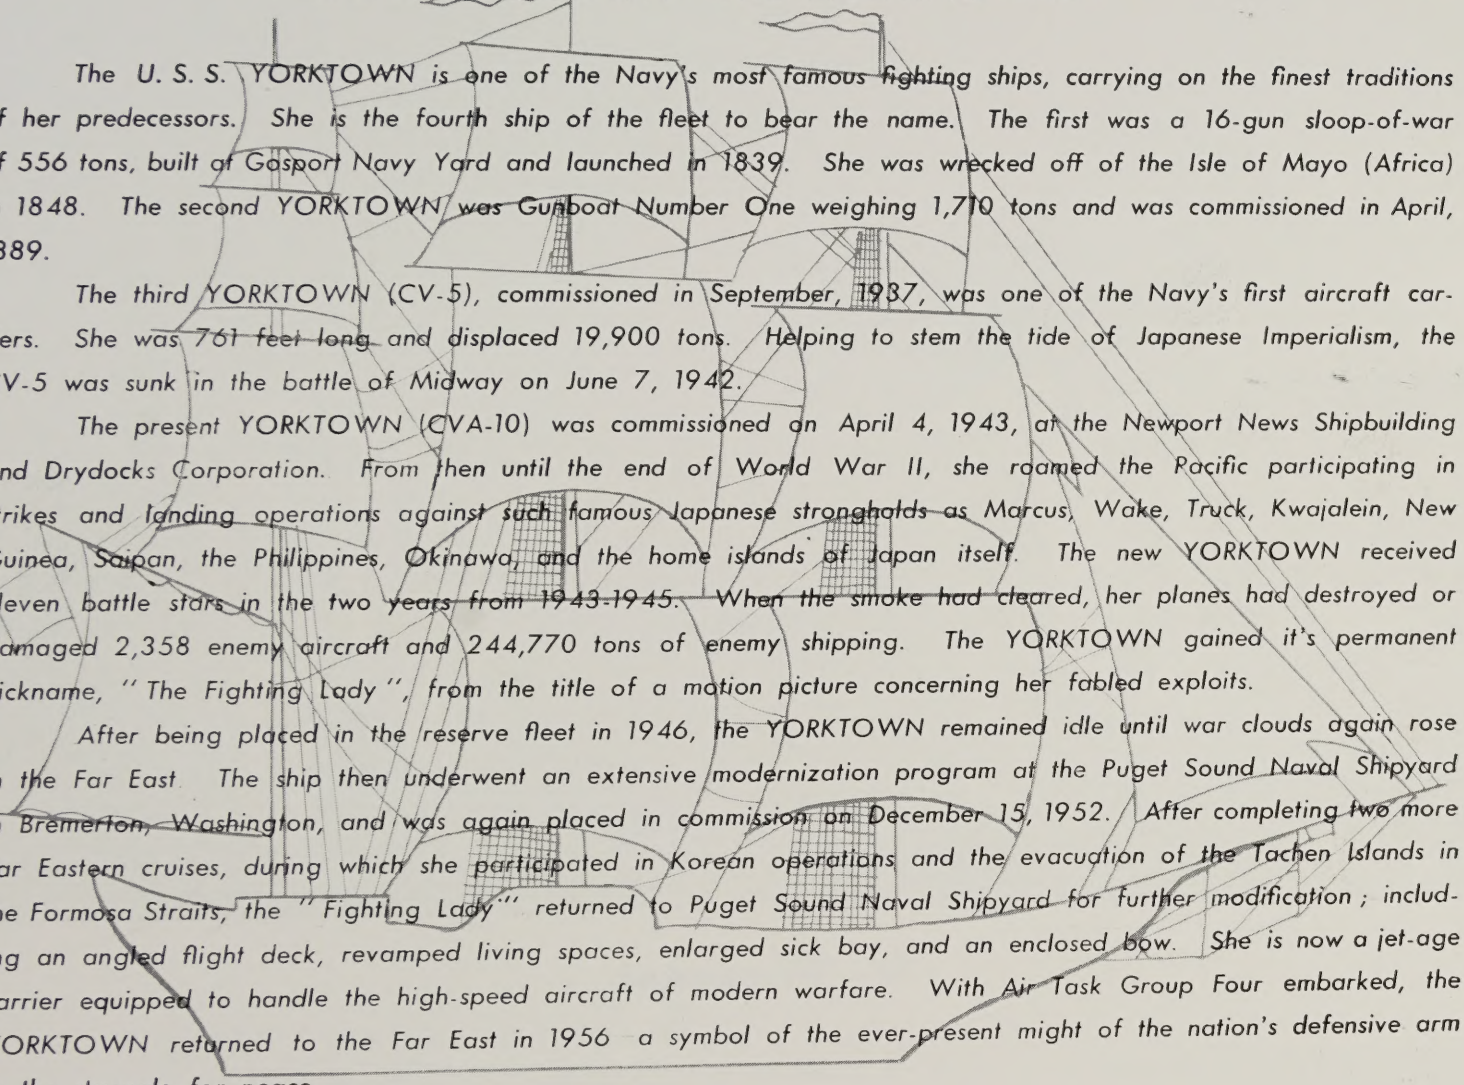
U.S.S. YORKTOWN-"THE FIGHTING LADY"



The U. S. S. YORKTOWN is one of the Navy's most famous fighting ships, carrying on the finest traditions of her predecessors. She is the fourth ship of the fleet to bear the name. The first was a 16-gun sloop-of-war of 556 tons, built at Gosport Navy Yard and launched in 1839. She was wrecked off of the Isle of Mayo (Africa) in 1848. The second YORKTOWN was Gunboat Number One weighing 1,710 tons and was commissioned in April, 1889.

The third YORKTOWN (CV-5), commissioned in September, 1937, was one of the Navy's first aircraft carriers. She was 761 feet long and displaced 19,900 tons. Helping to stem the tide of Japanese Imperialism, the CV-5 was sunk in the battle of Midway on June 7, 1942.

The present YORKTOWN (CVA-10) was commissioned on April 4, 1943, at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydocks Corporation. From then until the end of World War II, she roamed the Pacific participating in strikes and landing operations against such famous Japanese strongholds as Marcus, Wake, Truck, Kwajalein, New Guinea, Saipan, the Philippines, Okinawa, and the home islands of Japan itself. The new YORKTOWN received eleven battle stars in the two years from 1943-1945. When the smoke had cleared, her planes had destroyed or damaged 2,358 enemy aircraft and 244,770 tons of enemy shipping. The YORKTOWN gained it's permanent nickname, "The Fighting Lady", from the title of a motion picture concerning her fabled exploits.

After being placed in the reserve fleet in 1946, the YORKTOWN remained idle until war clouds again rose in the Far East. The ship then underwent an extensive modernization program at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard in Bremerton, Washington, and was again placed in commission on December 15, 1952. After completing two more Far Eastern cruises, during which she participated in Korean operations and the evacuation of the Tachen Islands in the Formosa Straits, the "Fighting Lady" returned to Puget Sound Naval Shipyard for further modification; including an angled flight deck, revamped living spaces, enlarged sick bay, and an enclosed bow. She is now a jet-age carrier equipped to handle the high-speed aircraft of modern warfare. With Air Task Group Four embarked, the YORKTOWN returned to the Far East in 1956 a symbol of the ever-present might of the nation's defensive arm in the struggle for peace.

CAPTAIN EMMET O'BEIRNE, U. S. NAVY

Captain Emmet O'Beirne was graduated from the Naval Academy in June, 1930 with a Bachelor of Science Degree. He later returned to Annapolis in June of 1937 for instruction in Aeronautical Engineering at the Academy's postgraduate school and continued the course at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston, receiving the degree of Master of Science in Aeronautical Engineering in June of 1940.

Prior to receiving his master's degree, he underwent flight training at the Pensacola Naval Air Station in Florida where he was designated a Naval Aviator on November 15, 1932.

He was attached to Patrol Squadron 21 as Flight and Executive Officer when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and was awarded the Navy Cross for heroism in close combat with the enemy on the night of November 12-13, 1942.

In August of 1944, he was assigned to the U. S. S. Sangamon (CVE-26), as her Executive Officer. For outstanding services as her Executive Officer, Commander O'Beirne was awarded the Legion of Merit and Bronze Star Medal.

With the siege in the Pacific over and peace restored, he was assigned to duty in Washington, D. C., reporting to the Air Intelligence Division of the Office of Naval Intelligence. Captain O'Beirne then took over as Commanding Officer of the U. S. S. Beiroko (CVE-115) and later was assigned as Chief of Staff and Aide to Commander of Task Group 7.3 at San Diego, California before taking command of the U. S. S. Yorktown on July 15, 1955.

COMMANDER ALVIN C. BERG
U.S. NAVY

Commander Berg entered the Naval Service in 1937. Receiving his Navy wings in 1938 at The Naval Air Station, Pensacola Florida, after which he was ordered to sea duty on the battleship Colorado. From there he was transferred and became a plank owner on the Cruiser St. Louis.

1941 found Lieutenant Berg senior Naval Aviator on board the newly commissioned U.S.S. Alabama. Following which, he was ordered to VPB 127 where he served as Operations Officer, Executive Officer and finally as Commanding Officer. He later Served as Commanding Officer of Hedron 9-1 at Quonset Point, Rhode Island.

As Air Officer on the Point Cruz, he once again qualified as a plank owner. He returned to Newport, Rhode Island, to attend the General Line School before taking his new job as Operations Officer at the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville Florida.

After a tour in VR 22 at Norfolk, Virginia, Commander Berg was sent to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, as Naval representative in the Central Air Documents Office.

Back to the West Coast again, Commander Berg became Executive Officer of VR 3 at Moffett Field Then after a tour of duty at the Air Transport Desk of OPNAV, he reported to the U. S. S. York town as Executive Officer, on November 7, 1955.

REAR ADMIRAL I.E. HOBBS

Admiral Hobbs began his distinguished naval career at the Naval Academy in 1921, receiving his commission in 1925. Following graduation, he spent four years in the surface fleet on the battleship OKLAHOMA and the destroyer PRUITT. Electing to enter Naval aviation, he was designated a Naval Aviator in 1930.

As a pilol, Hobbs' duty alternated between carriers and research duty ashore. His first command came in 1936, the USS GANNETT (AVP-8), in the Pacific Fleet. During the second World war, the AVP CHINCATEAGUE and the escort carrier MAKIN ISLAND were under his command.

Following the war, Admiral Hobbs, then Captain, attended Stanford University where he received his Master's Degree in personnel administration. Two years in the Bureau of Naval Personnel preceded his return to sea duty as carrier division Chief of Staff in the Pacific. He commanded the attack carrier PHILIPPINE SEA from 1950 to 1952 operating off Korea.

Before assuming command of Carrier Division THREE, Admiral Hobbs, served as Commander Carrier Division EIGHTEEN in the Atlantic and as Chief of Staff, Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet.

CAPTAIN R. L. NEWMAN

Appointed to the Naval Academy in 1925, Captain Newman was commissioned in 1930. Designated a Naval Aviator in 1932, he began acquiring his wealth of experience in fleet and carrier aviation. Service with observation, scouting, patrol, and fighter squadrons was valuable background for the greater responsibilities that lay ahead.

In the first months of World War II, he served on the staff of Commander Aircraft, Battle Force, on the USS ENTERPRISE. After a tour with the operational training command, Newman returned to the war in the Pacific as Commander Air Group TEN aboard the ENTERPRISE. Subsequent staff duty aboard the carriers WASP, MIDWAY, BON HOMME RICHARD, and YORKTOWN took the Captain through ten major Pacific Campaigns.

Shore duty with the training command and in the office of CNO preceded his first command at sea, the USS ONSLOW (AVP-48) He served as Director of Training on the staff of the Chief of Naval Air Training until 1954 when he assumed command of the attack carrier, SHANGRI LA.

On 3 January, 1956, Captain Newman reported as Chief of Staff to Commander, Carrier Division THREE.

WIVES DAY

The YORKTOWN and ATG-4 wives are all "Queens for a Day" when they come aboard for a one-day cruise. From stem to stern and bilges to bridge they tour the ship to see where their husbands work and live. Air operations, refueling, and the trip under the Golden Gate highlight the day at sea.

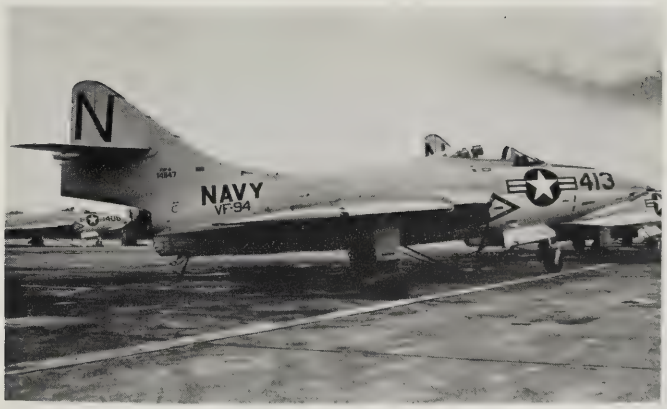
A Banshee over Moffett Field.

Air Task Group Four, under the command of Cdr. J. E. Kennedy, was commissioned on 30 March, 1955. Composed of VF-23 flying Banshees, VF-94 and VF-214 with Furies, and VA-216 piloting Skyraiders, ATG-4 makes its home at Moffett Field.

The first Fury is delivered to the air group.

In November, the Furies are exchanged for Cougars. Ninety-Four and Two-Fourteen deploy to El Centro for an accelerated training program.



Night flying, gunnery, navigation, bombing . . . and an occasional inspection by CAG. Finally the big day arrives . . . ATG-4 is ready for CarQuals on the new angled deck.

NAVIGATION

No ship could find its way through the trackless waters of the world without the precise services of the Navigation Department. Modern task force operations require a constant watch over time and position. The Navigation Department, through celestial observations, electronic devices and direct sights, maintains a continual geographic plot of the "Lady's" position. The Department also assumes the responsibility for maintaining the ships logs and clocks as well as rendering all honors and ceremonies.

AIR

Many services to aircraft are necessary before it is possible for them to deliver a knock-out punch. These are rendered by the "Lady's" Air Department. Necessary items such as fuel and ordance equipment are stored, maintained and issued by the department. Landing and launching operations are supervised by the Air Department, and it is they who are responsible for the shipboard handling and servicing of all aircraft including the rescue helicopter. 54

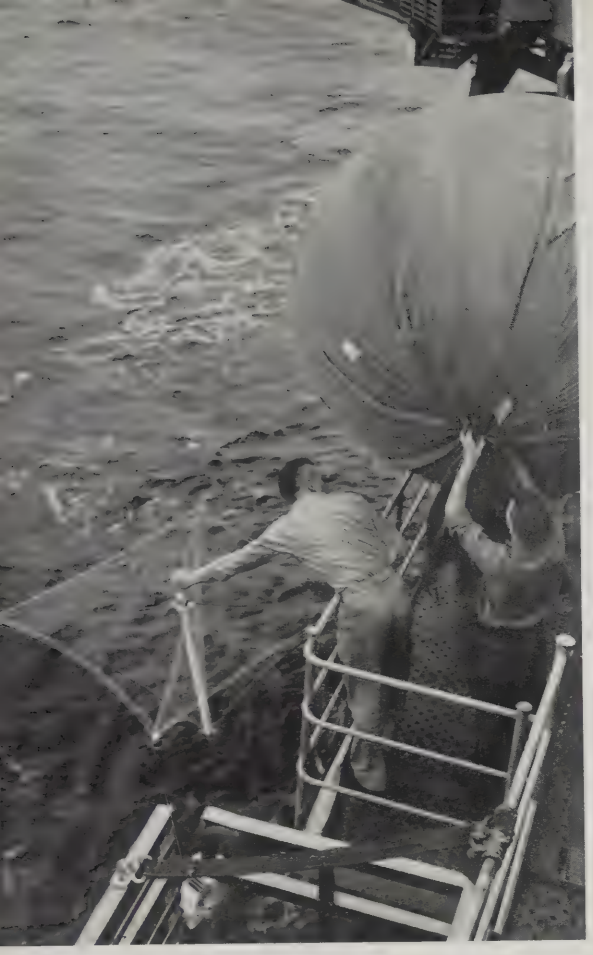
OPERATIONS



Little could be accomplished on any ship without an Operations Department. This is particularly true of an aircraft carrier, where it is necessary to coordinate activities of the surface Navy with those of the air Navy. To fulfill its mission the Operations Department includes Communications, Aerology, Photography, Electronics, Intelligence, and the Combat Information Center.

ENGINEERING

A modern ship is, indeed, a complicated piece of machinery. It is the job of the Engineering Department to maintain all propulsion and auxiliary equipment; to furnish power, light, ventilation, heat, refrigeration and water; to care for boat machinery and underwater fittings. To accomplish there manifold tasks are five divisions, Auxiliary, Electrical, Boiler, Main Engines and Repair.

GUNNERY

The life of a ship is often dependent on her ability to ward off enemy attack in wartime. It is necessary, therefore, to maintain a proficient gunnery department prepared to man the ship's armament at a moment's notice. In addition to this, the Gunnery Department assumes the responsibility for refueling and replenishing at sea; for the maintenance and operation of boats; and for anchoring or tying the ship to a pier or buoy.

SUPPLY

Exemplifying their motto of "Service to the Fleet", the Supply Department carries out thousands of chores which make the "Lady" a pleasant place in which to live and work. All but a few of the materials consumed daily on board pass through Supply. In addition, the department operates three retail stores, two soda fountains, clothing stores, laundries, two barber shops, a tailor shop, a cobbler shop and a small vending machine concession.

Hmmm ! Smell those steaks.

The quantities of food consumed by 2000 hungry men is staggering. Its preparation begins before reveille in the morning, and at the end of the day there is swabbing to be done.

It takes a healthy crew to sail a ship or fly an airplane. For that purpose the "Fighting Lady" is well equipped with a modern hospital staffed by the three medical officers, one medical service corps officer, two chief petty officers and twenty-three hospital corpsman. Nagasaki was the scene of one of the atom bomb explosions in 1945. Little evidence of the terrific damage remains. The stone pillar marks the point where the bomb detonated. The symbollic Statue of Peace is dedicated to the cause of peace among men. We are all deeply moved by these monuments.

Both Beauty and Devastation were recalled during tours from Sasebo.

We had been to Yokosuka and Sasebo by the time the "Lady steamed into Kobe for the first time. The entrance to the harbor, the pin-wheel and the hearty welcome, we will long remember.

Old Silas has seen a "flying machine," and all the wonders of time he led us a chase, all over the place and tangled us up in rhyme
But it's grand to see him laugh with glee as his ship hoves into view so we bid him good bye, with twinkling eye that salt-crusted Silas McQue
